Come on in, Y'all!
Accessible Archives in Georgia

Purpose

The 2017 Georgia Archives Month theme, "Come on in, y'all! Accessible Archives in Georgia," highlights the importance of the availability of accessible archival collections across our state. Participation in Georgia Archives Month is a tool to bring public attention to the value of Georgia's historical records and recognize the people that work with them.

Plan an Event

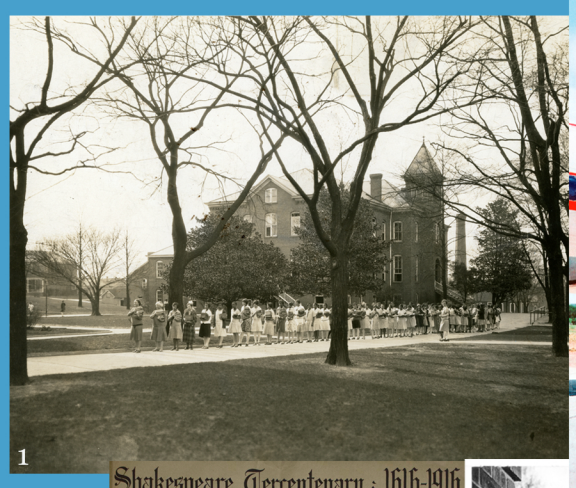
Plan an event, open your doors, and encourage the public to visit you during Georgia Archives Month in October.

How We Can Help

We can help you with publicity by providing a freely downloadable poster at http://soga.org/archivesmonth and by promoting your events on our website and social media. To promote your event, email us at ga.archivesmonth@gmail.com with information about your event.

Contact Us

For more information, email: ga.archivesmonth@gmail.com, go to the website: http://soga.org/archivesmonth or "Like" Georgia Archives Month on Facebook.



1

2

3

Shakespeare Tercentenary : 1616-1916
The New York Times
March 12, 1916
ODDS AGAINST SHAKESPEARE ON STAGE TODAY
This Is a Generation in Which Theatre Audiences Have Been Carefully Trained Away From Him
8

9

4

7

6

5

Images:

1: Spelman College, Spelman Students and Faculty Moving Books to New Library space – 1928. 2: Delta Flight Museum, Delta Air Lines "Welcome Aboard" poster, 1948. 3: Kennesaw State University Archives, Shift change at Bell Bomber Plant. The Bell Bomber plant was located in Marietta, GA during the 1940s, Bell Aircraft Georgia Division (Marietta) Collection, 1942-1945. 4: Kenan Research Center, Atlanta History Center, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. View of Frank T. Reynolds, chairman of the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce standing with one of the "highway lighthouse" signals erected by the Chamber at gateways to the city in Atlanta, Georgia (1930).5: Middle Georgia Archives, Washington Memorial Library, Patrons researching a building using Ellamae Ellis League Blueprints and Macon-Bibb Reference Files. 6: City of Savannah Research Library & Municipal Archives, Dedication of Yamacraw Playground, Savannah GA, 1992. 0123-045 Public Information Office Photographs, Box 2, Folder 36. City of Savannah Research Library & Municipal Archives, Savannah, Georgia. 7: Georgia Historical Society, Carnegie Library for W.P.A. Adult Education, 1937, Foltz Photography Studio (Savannah, Ga.) photographs, MS 1360-03-18-04. 8: Valdosta State University Archives and Special Collections, New York Times Shakespeare Tercentenary Collection. Image from March 12, 1916 edition. 9: Atlanta University Center Robert W. Woodruff Library Archives Research Center, A male and female student stand in an entryway at Clark College, circa 1960.

SPONSORS

The GAM committee would like to thank the following sponsors for their support of Georgia Archives Month 2017.

Society of Georgia Archivists SGA

DIGITAL LIBRARY of GEORGIA

CRAWFORD MEDIA SERVICES, INC.

STUART A. ROSE MANUSCRIPT ARCHIVES & RARE BOOK LIBRARY